

Global Challenges and U.S. National Security Strategy Global Engagement and Leadership Program

In collaboration with the United States Army War College

Wednesday, February 3, 2016
12:45 - 2:50 p.m.

Room 3911
Wesley W. Posvar Hall
University of Pittsburgh

Register Now:
www.worldpittsburgh.org
412-281-7970

This event is free and open to the public.

Registration is required.

Questions?
Contact Emily Markham at 412-281-7027
or emily@worldpittsburgh.org.

The United States is currently navigating numerous geopolitical challenges. The terrorist group ISIS recently attacked U.S. allies. China is claiming and defending expanded territory in the South China Sea. Trends of shifting demographics and weak economies place stress on failed or failing states, contributing to additional security concerns. How is the U.S. military responding to these issues?

During this briefing, senior officers representing several branches of the United States military will discuss their research on various national security issues, and how the U.S. is addressing these concerns. Attendees will have the opportunity to engage in discussion with the officers on these issues.

Join us at this exciting event, featuring senior military officials from the United States Army War College who have first-hand experience with military operations and tactics at home and abroad.

Thank you to our sponsors

GSPIA University of Pittsburgh
Graduate School of Public and International Affairs